 - SUPERAntiSpyware is regularly recommended as the first solution to cleaning infected systems on security forums such as Wilders Security, Bleeping Computer, Computing.net, TechFuels, Geekdrop.com, GeekPolice.net, 5-Star Support, and other popular forums worldwide.
 - SUPERAntiSpyware is recommended informally by tech support personnel at Dell Computer and AT&T Plus support. We have been informed by many users of our software that they were told to use it by both Dell Computer and/or AT&T Plus support and that it is the only solution to completely clean their system.

SUPERAntiSpyware has been positively reviewed by leading technical publications and blogs

- The Tech Herald: "Some recommendations for added security software include Malwarebytes Anti-Malware, SUPERAntiSpyware, HijackThis, or Spybot Search & Destroy. Each of those three applications rarely has issues running at the same time as the popular security suites, and can remove Rogue AV installations completely more often than not."
- The Washington Post: "If you notice things still aren't right with your system, and you see strange messages warning you about security threats, download and install one (or both) of the following tools:

Malwarebytes' Antimalware, and Superantispyware. I've found that these programs are almost always able to root out invaders left behind by scareware attacks."

- What's On My PC...: "...you really need to try SuperAntiSpyware Online Safe Scan. It is very easy to download and run a scan on your PC. The definition updates are automatically updated daily so you do not need to do anything other than download and run."
- BrightHub: "SAS and MBAM are recommended because both programs can detect items that another could not. Free anti-malware that will help remove unwanted and malware... what else you can ask for?"
- Tech – For Everyone: "I also want to say that I admire the people behind SAS, and they get a big tip of my geek hat. They are hard working and generous and they know their stuff. Their motto is "Remove ALL the Spyware, NOT just the easy ones" and I like that attitude!"
- Online Tech Tips: "One such program that has a premium and a free distribution is SuperAntiSpyware. This is one anti-spyware program that has a tendency to find malware that other programs, even the big names ones, fail to find."
- The Guardian: "It will be best if you remove any unwanted trial software and install some free programs such as AVG or Avast antivirus software, SuperAntiSpyware..."
- PC World: "...If that works, sigh with relief, but consider the fact that you may have fixed only a symptom. Scan your hard drive with SuperAntiSpyware or Malwarebytes (or both) to make sure it's not infected."
- Spyware Blockers: "When I was given the opportunity to test out SUPERAntiSpyware Professional, I was amazed (honestly)."
- The How-To Geek: "SuperAntiSpyware boasts being able to detect over 1 million malicious threats from Spyware, Adware, Spyware, Adware, Malware, Trojans, Dialers, Worms, KeyLoggers, HiJackers, Parasites, Rootkits, and others. This is good to know and gives a user piece of mind when it comes to security of their PC. If you have a nasty infection this can be a great tool for discovering issues that other programs may not see."
- Clear Tech Info: "After a week had passed I had scanned various computers with it. I learned that it not only removes spyware, malware and adware but it also goes a step further and removes some viruses which other programs in its category I have tested do not do."
- eSecurity Planet: "The program has been downloaded over a million times at download.com where users have rated it 4 stars out of 5. More than once, when running after AntiVir, it has found and removed malicious software."
- PC Hell: "SuperAntispyware has impressed me so much that its now one of the first tools I use to remove problems on a computer. It's one of the only tools that can remove some infections by itself, and the creators of the program seem to update it on a regular basis. I recommend it highly."
